Program Summary:

The Pharmacovigilance awareness program focused on empowering patients, healthcare professionals, and the community in ensuring medication safety. The program includes an introductory session for patients, educating them on adverse drug reactions (ADRs), how to recognize side effects, and the importance of reporting. This was followed by an orientation session for nurses and community pharmacists, emphasizing ADR reporting tools and their role in pharmacovigilance. The program also included a community-level patient safety initiative, to promote safe medication practices and education for reporting adverse drug reactions. The overall goal is to foster a culture of patient safety and proactive ADR monitoring within the community.
